are extracted from Vegetable products, combining in them the Mandrake or May Apple, which is recognized by physicians as a substitute for calomel, possessing all the virtues of that minreal, without its bad after offects.

As an Anti-Bilious Medicine

They are incomparable. They stimulate TOR-PID LIVER, invigorate the NERVOUS SYS-TEM, and give tone to the DIGESTIVE OR-GANS, creating perfect digestion and thorough assimilation of food. They exert a powerful influence on the KIDNEYS and LIVER, and through these organs remove all impurities, thus vitalizing the tissues of the body and causing a healthy condition of the system.

AS AN ANTI-MALARIAL REMEDY

They have no equal: and as a result act as a preventive and cure for Bilious, Remittent, In-termittent, Typhoid Fevers, and Fever and Ague. Upon the healthy action of the Stomach depends, almost wholly, the health of the hu-

DYSPEPSIA IS THE BANE of the present generation. It is for the cure of this disease and its attendants, SICK HEAD-ACHE, NERVOUSNESS, DESPONDENCY, CONSTIPATION, PILES, &c., that TUTT'S PILLS have gained such a wide spread reputation. No romedy has ever been discovered that acts so speedily and gently on the digestive organs, giving them tone and vigor to assimilate food. This being accomplished, of course the NERVOUS SYSTEM IS BRACED, THE BRAIN IS NOURISHED, AND THE BODY ROBUST.

Being composed of the juices of plants extractd by powerful chemical agencies, and prepared in a concentrated form, they are guaranteed free from anything that can injure the most delicate person. A noted chemist, who has analyzed them, says: "THERE IS MORE VIRTUE IN ONE OF TUTT'S PILLS THAN CAN BE FOUND IN A PINT OF ANY OTHER." We, therefore, say to the afflicted try this remedy fairly; it will not harm you; you have nothing to lose, but will surely gain a vigorous body, pure blood, strong nerves and a cheerful

Daniel Drew was in many respects a genius. He was not only a cool, cautious, crafty financier, but he had a thorough knowledge of horse flesh, and could gauge the weight of a herd of cattle at a glaces. He was at home with worldly men, many of whom learned by bitter experience that the old man was a match for the best of them; but it was among the ministers and church members that he shope resplendently. With a soft voice, in language as free from art as his coul seemed to be from sio, and with a never changing smile. Uncle Daniel always estried his point with profesiors of religion. He gave money to their churches, and built houses of worship himself. His conversation with the church folk was always on religious topics; but when he detected in a good brother an inclination to reach out for the flesh pols he gave his advice, and the good brother did not profit by it. But Unele Dan'l always profited by the good brother's credulity and simple

About 1821 David Drewlessed the old Bull's Head Tavern, at the northwest corner of Third avenue and Twenty-fourth street. He was then only 24 years of age; but he knew how to keep a hotel. In rear of the house, which is still standing, were extensive cattle pens, al ways packed with what the drovers' landlerd called "prime, likely critters;" and here he laid the foundation of his fortune. It was here, according to his own story, that he "learned to

"I can't bear profanity, young man," he said to the writer about ten years ago. "I did uster swear; but that was afore the grace of God en tered my heart and drew the devil out. I don't say it in a proud like way, but I believe I'm about the only Wall street man that don't swear; and I can't remember a railroad man or a steamboater that couldn't outcuss Satan himself. My experience has teached me that men what gives their hearts to money makin' and leaves the Lord for to shift for himself al-WAVS SWERTS."

When Drew, Jay Gould, Eldridge, and Jas. Fisk, ic., were in exile in New Jersey, the re porter, having some business with the last named, called at Taylor's Hotel, and after a great deal of trouble in passing the guard was admitted to the presence. Fisk gave his visi-ter a cerdial greeting, and made him at home in the front parlor. After the business between the two had been satisfactorily transacted, the reporter expressed a desire to meet Mr.

"Come here, you old sinner." A tall, well built old gentleman, with an innocent face, stepped from a side room and stood in the doorway.

"Hollo, Uacle Daniel!" Col. Fisk shouted.

"Well, Jeems," he said, in flate like tenss, what do you want?" "This gentleman wants you; I don't. I've had a dam sight more to do with you than was good for me." Then followed the introduction.

"Allow me to introduce Old Dan'l Drew the damdest old hypocritical recoundrel that ever sang a psalm or stole a ham." "Jeems," Unele Dan'l here said, with the suspicion of a tremor in his voice, "you cughtn't talk that way. Elf you don't look out your wise and your women and your wulgarity will git you into trouble."

With these words on his lips, the old man walked back into his sitting room. The announcement of the death of Uncle Dan't brought forth reminiscences from many members of the Stock Exchange yesterday. The first appearance of Usele Dan't in the street is lost in the memory of the oldest speculator. But the doings of his later years are very vivid in the minds of many, especially those who happened to be bitter. It is remem bered that he did not like to pay out money, but gave a note if he could, or a check if he was forced to. This system of doing business, said one who is now accounted a shrewd operator, was what broke the old man up and ruiced him. II did not keep a book ecount, but carrid in his head the record of all his coormous transac tions. He brought into the market all the tricks and ways of the cattle drovers, and it was to an extent owing to their ignorance of these tecties that his upponents were worsted so often. The general verdict is that if any one set out to get anything out of the old man he would succeed if he only kept up his fight long enough. A young broker, then an office clerk, was sent to Drew's office with David Grocebeck to deliver 5,000 shares of stock on a call on Erio. Drew was not in, and the next day he wished to repudiate the transaction on the ground of non-delivery, because the difference was about ten points against him.

His broker insisted, however, that the delivery was made, and that the holder of the privilege should not suffer because he was not there to take the stock. By this argument Draw was forord to draw his check for the difference.

The death of Uccle Dan'l, ends the litigation in the Kings county courts between himself and S. V. White, On March 2, 1875, Mr. White bought of Mr. Drew for $2,700 the privilege of purchasing at any time within 60 days from that date at his option 1,800 shares of Union Pacific stock at 49, and Mr. Drew promised to deliver the shares on the next business day after that on which Mr. White might make the demand. On the 27th of March, 1875, Mr. White called for the stock, and at Mr. Drew's request the time was extended to March 31, on which date Mr. Drow bought from Mr. White 1,800 shares of Union Pacific stock at 63, giving him a due bill for $41,400. As this was not paid Mr. White sued for the money.—N. Y. Sun.
